

Lynn Coomer and her nephew Jaxon Chidgey. Picture: Jennifer Lo

Day of cultural pride

CHLOE FRASER

Kwinana's cultural diversity will be celebrated this weekend at Connecting Community for Kids (CCK) multicultural clothes party.

In recognising the many cultures that make up the vibrant Kwinana community, CCK is inviting families to come together in a friendly, safe and inclusive space this Saturday. Attendees are invited to wear their traditional clothes, bring a plate of food to share and get to know their neighbours. The free event will celebrate Kwinana's rich cultural diversity with plenty of fun entertainment to join in with, including multicultural parades and performances, traditional games, and cultural food tasting.

There will also be a multicultural quiz with prizes and a chill-out zone with sensory play activities.

CCK community development officer Nicole Hunt said the event was an opportunity for guests to spend the afternoon meeting families who lived in the same local area.

"We're inviting Kwinana families to come together in a friendly, safe and non-judgemental space," she said.

There will be a professional photographer at the event who will be capturing images of families in their full dress, for free. Each family will be emailed a full-colour portrait as a memorable keepsake from the day.

The event runs from 2.30pm to 5.30pm at Medina Hall located at 7 Pace Road.

For more information visit connecting4kids.com.au.